To Whom It May Concern,

I have had the pleasure of being a co-worker of Brad Ainslie for the past couple of years; where I had consistent interactions working with him on many IT projects and tasks.

Brad has proven himself to be an extremely knowledgeable IT Professional. While working with him, he was always very helpful in assisting me with testing software and deployment packages, providing working solutions for bugs he found, and fixing the many technical issues that occurred frequently throughout the business site. His knowledge of the current Windows operating system, the imaging process from both client-side and server-side, are second to none. He also has impeccable customer service skills.

Due to his knowledge and experience in computer and network support, computer maintenance, and his ability to learn new technologies very fast, I give Brad Ainslie my highest recommendation.

Respectfully,
